Metal Manipulations - For this project, I was tasked with creating a project by hand. From concept to completion with a printing method and binding method I had researched and tried out. I used Photoshop for the manipulations and for my stencils.

- Time management.
- Creativity and communication of those creative ideas.

Shaka - This project was for my design team class. Essentially it resembles what a real graphic design team would do for a project start to finish. We designed the branding, advertising, data visualizations and a website for our company. Data visualizations was the asset I was put in charge of and I used Photoshop and Illustrator to create the posters.
